Master of Science in Artificial Intelligence

Autumn semester 2026

Online lectures

All group sessions and exam sessions will normally take place online. Full details will be provided by the teaching teams on Moodle.
Please note that the Master in AI is launching in Autumn 2026, and only the modules normally taken in a students first semester will be taught in the first semester of the programme. Additional modules will become available gradually on a semester-by-semester basis, as the first cohort of students progresses through the programme.

Modules	Time	Online lectures
		1	2	3	4	5
M02 - Computer Science for AI	8h30 - 11h30	12th September	3rd October	24th October	14th November	5th December
M01 - Mathematics for AI	13h30 - 16h30

Exams

Details regarding regular exams and repeat exams

Any changes to dates or procedures will be communicated directly to the students concerned by the module teaching team. Details concerning continuous (i.e. taking place during the semester) and final assessments are specified in the course description.

If a module does not appear in the exam table below, it means that its final assessment takes a different form, details of which are specified in the course description.

Should a repeat exam be required, the concerned students will be notified directly.

Regular exam session : 9 January 2027
